ERUPTION ON CHILD'S SHOULDER

When Four Months Old. Clothing Irritated. Restless and Fretful. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Eczema Was Gone.

Lincolnville, Me .- "My little girl was about four months old when I first began to notice little white blisters just below her shoulder. It began to become worse and the blisters seemed to break and run together. When they broke it would make a raw sore and then she would have terrible crying spells. The blisters filled with water, She was not old enough to scratch herself but when I rubbed it she would stop crying and keep perfectly quiet. Her clothing ed to irritate it and she would be restless and fretful. She also had a real scurvy

"I was told it was eczema and I tried everything but it did no good. One day a friend of mine told me to get a cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Oint ment. It was not a week before I noticed she was much better. If she began to cry I would undress her and put Cuticura Oint-ment on her chest which would stop her crying at once. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment six weeks and the eczema wa gone. She has never been bothered since." (Signed) Mrs. A. C. Haslam, Jan. 31, 1914.

NEW LONDON'S COLLEGE BUILDINGS

Contract Goes to Out of Town Bidder-Disagreeable Features of Dumping Ground Nuisance-Much Trouble Connected With Junk Buying.

The New London building contractors although with a slight tinge of favoritism on the part of the board of trustees, were unable to successfully compete with the bidders from larger cities for the contract to erect the buildings that are to form the colony of the Connecticut College for Women to be located in New London. It was thought that local builders could afford to do the work at a lower rate than builders from abroad by reason of convenience to their working plants than builders from abroad by reason of convenience to their working plants and the decreased cost to them of doing the preliminary work, but the matter of distance does not seem to enter into the computation when big contractors do the figuring. The New London bids, that were reliable, were London bids, that were reliable, were away beyond the bids of others, and so far that they could not be conscientiously considered by the board of trustees, no matter what might be their personal preference.

It is said that the bid of a local contractor was about $100,000 above that of the successful bidder, so the local bidders were out of the running. It would have been poor business principle for the trustees to have Members of the Sunday school of the Baptist church have planned the annual picnic for Roseland park, Woodstock, today, leaving Putnam during the forenoon.

There is still opportunity for local firms to get some of the work, as the general contractors will undoubtedly give out sub-contracts for portions of the work, the heating, the plumbing, the work, the heating, the plumbing, the heating furnishing material and the like; but that too will depend upon the figures submitted, as the general contractore cannot afford to play favorites. There is no valid reason why considerable of the work should why considerable of the work should no be sub-let to local firms. Take the heating for instance. There is a con-cern right in New London that con-trols one of the best known systems of heating and which has stood the test of years and all over the United States. This concern has made suc-cessful bids for heating for buildings much more extensive than those to the contract has been awarded them in competition. That concern has been in the bidding business just as long as it has been in the reating business as it has been in the reating business. iness and should know just how to submit proper figures for the class of work specified. The same applies to the other branches of construction work that is liable to be sub-let to local contractors, provided, of course, if the figures are as they should be. So there is still hope that much of the work will be done under the direction of New London sub-contractors and by New London workmen.

This being so it is perhaps up to the chief engineer, acting as state fire marshal, to see to it, that the place by abandoned as a dumping ground by reason of its contiguity to building that are constantly endangered. The marshal has fire control over the back yards and cellars, yes and even rest Black will sense the real situation and cooperate with Chief Stanners in abating the nuisance that has be forcibly endured by the residents the vicinity for the past two years. True, the made land brings coin to the pockets of the owners, who by the pockets of the owners, who by the way, are not residents of the section, which has, of course, nothing to do with the inactivity of the health committee in regard to the nuisance and health and fire menace.

There are fences in New London that should be demolished, but to y are not of the kind that divides, at rather receives property-property that has been stolen. This particular kind of fence usually consists of bearded men who collect junk from house to house and do a business on the side with boys who dispose of stolen brass and other metals far below the prevailing market prices. The proprietors of junk shops use some discretion and judgment when making which explains the reason why wise young thieves do business with the man with the horse and cart. These collectors break and cut the metals and wire ropes that come their way under suspicious conditions and for that reason much of the stolen property cannot be traced.

During the present week thieves, evidently of the juvenile order, viaited an unocupied manufacturing plant and stole a large cable that had
